Rather than analyze a single image take a look at a body of work from a single photographer. Explore the LensCulture website and find a photographer's body of work that catches your eye and resonates with you. Read the article itself and explore the accompanying images. Then write a 1-2 page, double-spaced analysis of the project. Analyze the project as a whole, but also single out individual images as well. At the end of your analysis please include the web link to the photographs on LensCulture that you analyzed.
