

ACTIVE LEARNING TEMPLATE: Basic Concept

STUDENT NAME _____

CONCEPT _____

REVIEW MODULE CHAPTER _____

Related Content

(E.G., DELEGATION,
LEVELS OF PREVENTION,
ADVANCE DIRECTIVES)

Proficient duties are the commitments that medical attendants have to their customers. To meet their expert obligations, nurses must be learned in the accompanying territories: Advocacy, customer rights, informed consent, classification and data security, data security, advance directives, legitimate practice, troublesome conduct, and moral practice. It is imperative for medical attendants to understand that customers have their rights and they should assume a basic part in the manner in which they handle the client/customer/patient in order to ensure the prosperity of the customer.

Underlying Principles

1. Nurses must ensure that they understand the rights of their clients during nursing care
2. Nursing need to be informed in all aspects of care and take a role in decision making process
3. Nurses have to be competent individuals who treat their clients with respect
4. Nurses should be ethical and professional by ensuring accountability of their actions and decisions

Nursing Interventions

WHO? WHEN? WHY? HOW?

1. Create an environment of mutual respect among staff
2. Adopt policies that limit the risk of retaliation when disruptive behavior is reported.
3. Model appropriate behavior
4. Avoid making excuses for disruptive behavior
5. Increase staff awareness about disruptive behavior
6. Support zero tolerance for disruptive behavior.
7. Establish mechanisms for open communication between staff nurses and nurse managers