Fundamental rights are the rights that have ended up being legally protected through common rulings of judges even though they are not specified in the constitution of the United States. In the case of Charlie, it can be stated that he deserves the fundamental right to access medical care or instead use Marijuana. Generally, this is a matter of Charlies' pain that any scientific or legal medication has not controlled. Factually, according to Evans (2020), it is clear that by using Marijuana, Charlie's pain will reduce, enabling him to stay peacefully. Therefore, since Marijuana does not have adverse effects, which is from the records that state that there is no single death that has been reported to be caused by Marijuana, then Charlie should take medical Marijuana. Moreover, in the years that Marijuana has existed, it has been known to Europeans and Americans (Evans, 2020). There are fears that maybe after Charlie goes to a different nation where Medical Marijuana is allowed, there might be changes about marijuana consumption, hence being negatively affected by these changes.

It should be understood that this is a matter of Charlie's health. Since there is no legal medication that has proved to work, Charlie has the fundamental right to medical marijuana consumption, which will reduce his pain. As stated, this pain affects him physically, and his daily duties, and the wife is not ready to relocate. Therefore, Charlie should be granted the fundamental right of Medical Marijuana consumption. That way, he will be comfortable living with his entire family and performing his daily duties as usual. In addition to that, Charlie will not fear relocating to other nations that have legalized the use of Medical Marijuana and later changing their rules or rather authorizations since he will have its aces in his own country.

Conclusively, according to the facts that have been provided regarding the use of medical Marijuana, Charlie has a fundamental right to access medical care or use Medical Marijuana.

This is for the better of his health and reduces the pain he is undergoing, resulting from the non-terminal disease.
