

Pre-recording video :

https://cccconfer.zoom.us/rec/share/eGlbjQDj1bj21uaGn7DaVluolfTKWj2188J7bpwheV_dr8ogBg8oXhvqmQ4CqT.EHzvaYwiwOM_NP4G?startTime=1615491424000

Classmate response: Jacqueline T.

"The Ecchoing Green"

What does the garden/greenery represent in this poem?

I believe the greenery represents a place for memories. The children in this poem are creating delightful memories through the gleeful activities, sounds, and sights of playing on the greenery. These moments of happiness as a child are echoed back to the old folk when they observe the young ones' merry behavior from afar. Furthermore, the old folk see the greenery as a place to reminisce on, as their memories of the past can no longer be relieved.