

Classmate response: Jose De Jesus, Miranda

The constitution consisted that all slaves should be returned to their owners and they couldn't escape to a state where slavery was outlawed. Basically they had no escape and no rights, what if they already had a family and a home in the state they escape to? Would they be dragged by force? It's really disappointing to have this in our constitution just gross.