

iting

1% of your paper matches
public sources

We found this text in our plagiarism check on CNN heath (little people, lots of pills: Experts debate medicating kids

See sources Dismiss

Over-Medicated After All). He is concerned about the drugs used for ADHD and other mental illnesses that may not be good to the patients because the scientific study done to show how they are effective is based on the databases from research and not information from the clinic. He says that many parents don't believe in the mental disorder treatment thus they don't take their children to health professionals and are a large number of children who are not treated from mental disorders.

Madison Park, report on CNN heath (little people, lots of pills: Experts debate medicating kids) he reports that many children are medicated to control their behaviors. Some disorders do not need treatment while some are given the wrong medication for their health conditions that result in more mental Thanks in advance!

Jamie D Alexander

Clinic Coordinator to the Fellow's Continuity clinic

Houston Methodist Cancer Center

Main # 713.441.9948

Fax # 713.441.8791

Email: jdalexander3@houstonmethodist.org