

Culminating paper

Abstract in the beginning APA Format

Part 1- You are required to document through the anecdotal process, a student that you currently work with, or have worked with (real or fictitious). This paper must contain at least five (5) incidents of observable issues (cognitive or behavioral) all on the same child (See anecdotal template.) Example: Nick had a hard time sharing or kept walking around the room distracting the students, cried during class, bothers other students.

Part 2- Paper of 4-5 pages on the specific disability of the student that you have chosen to anecdote. In other words give an extensive report on that specific disability and the history of it.

Part 3 write 3-4 pages on your student and the disability. In other words how does that specific disability affect that student. Begin with the background of the student. Make up the homelife and the parents. What kind of house hold did he grow up in? What kind of pregnancy did the mother have? Example: Was the child was premature?, or the mother had a difficult birth or she smoke or drink during the pregnancy. It can be made up. You must incorporate your student within the paper. If specific incidents that apply to your student are not in the body of the paper, your grade for the paper will reflect the omission. Important: You must support your work with citations from journal articles. Example: If you are doing your project on ASD, and in one anecdotal incident your case study student gets out of his seat and begins flapping, you will need to cite articles and studies about that particular behavior. AT LEAST 5 JOURNAL ARTICLES MUST BE CITED TO SUPPORT YOUR CLAIMS.

add citations

Part 4 Last page is goal page. Write one specific goal you have for that student to reach by the end of the school year. Example: Nick will remain in his seat for one whole lesson.