Alder is a fine-grained hardwood similar to Cherry, Birch and Maple. Characteristics include random sized tight knots and rays. Birch is a medium hardwood similar to Maple but not as consistent in color as Maple, good base for solid colors, accepts stain unevenly mottles and blotchy appearance due to the various densities in the wood. Cherry darkens with age at a very fast rate. Characteristics include pitch marks (worm holes) mineral streaks, medium hardwood and accepts stain well. Hickory is a strong solid heavy wood with open grain that is known for its light to dark contrast in color. Cabinet components may range from light, almost white to a deep, reddish-brown color. Maple is a fine, tight grain hardwood that looks best with light, natural or solid color finishes. Oak and quartersawn oak possess a very stable open grain that accepts stain well, will darken slightly with age, with grain pattern very evident when solid color is applied. Oak may vary in color from light to dark with possible shades of green. All solid woods have their own unique character.

SOLID COLORS*

*All solid colors are available in Alder, Birch, Maple, MDF and Oak.

A rustic kitchen featuring extensive wood cabinetry in a warm, natural finish. The kitchen includes a large island with a granite countertop and a built-in sink, a breakfast bar with four wooden stools, and a stone fireplace wall behind the main cooking area. Stainless steel appliances, including a double oven and a refrigerator, are integrated into the woodwork. The floor is made of light-colored stone tiles, and the overall lighting is warm and inviting.
