

CNDV 5322 Rubric - Final Course Project

This assignment is worth 150 points.

Final Project Paper Rubric

Category	Points
	22-25	20-21	17-19	0-16
Discuss your initial apprehensions about entering a profession where legal and ethical issues are continuously present. What have you learned that has helped attend to those apprehensions (25 pts)	Information clearly relates to the main topics (ethical and legal considerations) of entering the counseling profession and what the student has learned that attends to those apprehensions. Section is well written. Information is well organized. Paragraphs are well constructed. No grammatical, spelling or punctuation errors	Information clearly relates to the main topics (ethical and legal considerations) of entering the counseling profession and what the student has learned that attends to those apprehensions. Information is organized and information is factual and correct. Almost no grammatical, spelling, or punctuation errors	Information somewhat relates to the main topics (ethical and legal considerations) of entering the counseling profession and what the student has learned that attends to those apprehensions. The information appears to be disorganized. The information presented is questionable. Many grammatical, spelling, or punctuation errors	Information does not relate to the main topics (ethical and legal considerations) of entering the counseling profession and what the student has learned that attends to those apprehensions. Information is not only disorganized but inaccurate. Numerous grammatical and punctuation errors
	22-25	20-21	17-19	0-16
Address the licensure and certification process you intend to complete as a professional counselor (25 pts)	Information clearly relates to the main topics of licensure and certification. Section is well written. Information is well organized. Paragraphs are well constructed. No grammatical, spelling or punctuation errors	Information clearly relates to the main topics of licensure and certification. Information is organized and information is factual and correct. Almost no grammatical, spelling, or punctuation errors	Information somewhat relates to the main topics of licensure and certification. The information appears to be disorganized. The information presented is questionable. Many grammatical, spelling, or punctuation errors	Information does not relate to the main topics of licensure and certification. Information is not only disorganized but inaccurate. Numerous grammatical and punctuation errors
	22-25	20-21	17-19	0-16
Discuss the importance of informed consent including its role and function as an ethical and legal counselor (25 pts)	Information clearly relates to the main topic of informed consent including legal and ethical considerations. Section is well written. Information is well organized. Paragraphs are well constructed. No grammatical, spelling or punctuation errors	Information clearly relates to the main topic of informed consent including legal and ethical considerations. Information is organized and information is factual and correct. Almost no grammatical, spelling, or punctuation errors	Information somewhat relates to the main topic of informed consent including legal and ethical considerations. The information appears to be disorganized. The information presented is questionable. Many grammatical, spelling, or punctuation errors	Information does not relate to the main topic of informed consent including legal and ethical considerations. Information is not only disorganized but inaccurate. Numerous grammatical and punctuation errors
	39-50	26-38	13-25	0-12
Discuss three important ethical concepts and how they are currently being addressed in the field of counseling (e.g. confidentiality,	Information clearly relates to three ethical concepts and how the emerging trends are being addressed in the field of counseling.	Information clearly relates to three ethical concepts and how the emerging trends are being addressed in the field of counseling.	Information somewhat relates to three ethical concepts and how the emerging trends are being addressed in the field of counseling.	Information does not relate to three ethical concepts and how the emerging trends are being addressed in the field of counseling.

boundary violations and difficulties, diagnosis, duty to warn, competence, etc.) (50 pts)	Section is well written. Information is well organized. Paragraphs are well constructed. No grammatical, spelling or punctuation errors	Information is organized, factual and correct. Almost no grammatical, spelling, or punctuation errors	The information appears to be disorganized. The information presented is questionable. Many grammatical, spelling, or punctuation errors	Information is not only disorganized but inaccurate. Numerous grammatical and punctuation errors
	22-25	20-21	17-19	0-16
Reflect on where you started in this process of learning legal and ethical considerations in counseling. (25 pts)	Information clearly relates to reflection requested. Section is well written. Information is well organized. Paragraphs are well constructed. No grammatical, spelling or punctuation errors	Information clearly relates to reflection requested Information is organized and information is factual and correct. Almost no grammatical, spelling, or punctuation errors	Information somewhat relates to the reflection requested The information appears to be disorganized. The information presented is questionable. Many grammatical, spelling, or punctuation errors	Information does not relate to the reflection requested. Information is not only disorganized but inaccurate. Numerous grammatical and punctuation errors