

How to write an Intelligence Briefing

What is an intelligence briefing?

An intelligence briefing delivers information on a particular subject. Intelligence briefings are short and to the point. Your intelligence briefing should cover a topic related to policing/crime/intelligence in Saudi Arabia. [CILO 1: Evaluate Intelligence-Related Research Question].

How to write an intelligence briefing

Your assignment should be organised as follows:

- Title.
- Summary, or Key Findings (Bullet Points).
- Introduction (Short).
- Main Points.
- Conclusion (Short).

- Write the intelligence briefing as if you were writing a report on policing/crime/ intelligence in Saudi Arabia for a superior. [CILO 4: Write Reports],
- Cadets should suggest some method of dealing with the crime they are talking about. [CILO 3: Recommend Strategies]
- Cadets must use some type of graph or diagram or chart or statistical data in the briefing. [CILO 2: Present Results]
- The briefing must be referenced properly.
- Copying or sharing will be treated as plagiarism and penalties will be applied.