

How Does Domestic Policy Impact the International Community?

In a past assignment, you examined the impact that international agreements and treaties can have on domestic policy; it is important, however, to understand that domestic policy can also have a large impact on what is done internationally. What the United States does can have a huge effect internationally - the 'War on Drugs' in the United States has had a serious impact in Central and Latin American countries, just as the austerity measures in Great Britain have had a serious effect on other European Union nations.

Your task in this assignment is to explore the impact that a particular nation's domestic policy has had on the international community. You will select one nation and then research a domestic policy enacted in that country that has had an impact on other nations. Effectively, you are going to learn about how one nation's decision can have an effect on nations around the world.

You may chose to look at:

- Canada's legalization of marijuana and how it affects its relationship with the United States
- The death penalty in America and how it affects extradition treaties with other nations
- Austerity measures in Great Britain, Germany or Greece and how it impacts its relationship with other nations
- Or any issue of your choice.

Your report should be about 1 page long and provide evidence of critical thinking, analysis, and solid research. Be sure to include both proper footnotes and a bibliography page in proper Chicago formatting. Please ensure that you submit your assignment as a PDF. Alternatively, you can also submit your assignment as an audio or video file; you can also complete this assignment as a media piece (PowerPoint, Prezi, Google Slides). If you decide to do an audio, video, or media submission, you need to still include a bibliography page in Chicago formatting.