

LESSON 03 – Chapter 05 - Assignment

I would cast Julie Andrews as Vi, Helen Mirren as Ru, and Betty White as Flo. I chose older actors because it seems to me that they must be considerably older, considering their lack of interest in having a lively conversation and their nostalgia for a life clearly long gone.

As for my specific choices, I chose Andrews as Vi because she is the first one to speak and the one that said the trio should hold hands, leading me to see her as the most lively and kind of the group, words I certainly think describe Andrews.

My decision regarding Mirren and White were less character oriented, but I will say that I chose White for Flo based off of the somewhat strange final line where she mentions "the rings," an odd comment I could simply see the older White making.

It may also be worthwhile to note that while Mirren and Andrews have experience on stage in plays, White does not. I will say that I chose her not from previous stage experience but out of my personal preference for the often wickedly funny "old lady."
