

Locating Information in an Article

Method Section

Research Design

What type of design did Saleh use?

- P 319, 5.1, Participants

Students of different ability levels were randomly grouped into heterogeneous learning groups such that each group contained one high, one low and two average-ability students.

Learning groups were then randomly assigned to the structured condition ($n=20$) or the comparison condition ($n=21$).

- P 321, 5.4, Procedure

The study was performed over a nine-week

