

Respond to all of the following:

1. Your name and how you prefer to be addressed in this class (be sure to always sign off this way).
2. With regard to taking an online course: (after viewing all corresponding videos) A-- what online course taking "myth" surprised you the most? B --what grade would you give your computer (that you will be using for this class)? C-- What is your experience and level of comfort with taking online classes?
3. Have you previously heard of "Growth versus Fixed Mindset"? What is your initial reaction to this idea and according to the materials presented in Module 1? Where do you currently see yourself in this context and as a learner?
4. What is your definition of taking "personal responsibility" in the context of being a college student and how you foresee the outcome of this course?
5. Why are you taking Developmental Psychology? You may want to mention your course of study/major and/or reasons why you chose this class if you are using it to satisfy a GE area.
6. What questions do you have about "lifespan psychology" that you intend to find the answer to by the end of this course? If this is not something you've thought about previously, review the summary/course description and peruse chapter 1. Everyone should come up with 1-3 questions for this prompt.
7. How has Covid-19 and the subsequent (and still occurring) social distancing practices affected your life? Do you believe where you are currently in your stage of psychological development (you can just think of this as where you are in life with regard to your age and what this means as far as what's socially acceptable) makes it easier/more challenging/or doesn't really change how you are being personally impacted by this global situation?
