

- Write a rhetorical analysis of the article on climate change you read in Week 5. Using the information in In Conversation and from the worksheet you completed in Week 5, fully analyze the argument. Note: this is a new genre for you. It is not the same as a summary or a review. It should be in essay form and include information on elements of the argument such as claim, evidence, rhetorical appeals, fallacies, bias, and style (including choice of vocabulary). You have already found this information (in your worksheets), so you will now compose an essay that explains the issue, describes the elements of the argument, and assesses the author's success in writing the argument.
- Minimum 800 words.