GROUP RUNNING THE RESTAURANT

The owner, Inez Cook, started the restaurant in the early 2000s. Inez Cook grew up in Vancouver and she understands the local taste and cuisines better than many people understand. He is also a member of Nuxalk Nation in Bella Coola B.C. She runs the restaurant with the help of professional cooks, and other staff from the local environment. They understand the roots of the local culture, which makes them more accessible to the traditional cuisines in Vancouver. The staff represents different indigenous tribes in Vancouver including Carrier-Sekani, Haida, Long Plain, Muskoday, Nuxalk, Ojibway, Pinaymootang, Quwutsun, Squamish, and Tsimshian

Our pride is in the spirit of the First Nation's traditions. Our intention is to provide our guests with a place where they can focus on their taste experience of the traditional food

OUR FLAVOR

Our restaurant is the only one of a kind that serves Vancouver's traditional or indigenous food. Using traditional ingredients, we learned from grandmothers and grandfathers who came before us, we are proud to present to our esteemed guests authentic traditional flavors and delicious dishes.
