Scholarship for Education

Growing up, my family and I have struggled to meet ends meet. But each day we find a way even if we get to eat once a day or get free food from volunteers from the local churches or just strangers with a giving heart. I have attended schools without air conditioning, and bullies were hanging around my neck for not being able to afford a decent meal every day. My parents fight almost every day because of money and due to the stress they undergo at work. Having to hear other kids who talked about Christmas presents and planned a vacation for their summer is hard, but I try not to get jealous even though I know these are things I never get to have.

I have applied for countless scholarships, and getting rejected adds to my headaches and stress of how I am going to get the funds to continue with my studies. It has been a hard life growing up, but all in all, I am grateful for life and still striving to achieve the small and big goals set for myself and my future. My dream is becoming a teacher, to transfer knowledge to young people not only about what has been covered in the curriculum but also about love for knowledge, self-respect, kindness and optimism. The three thousand dollars would elevate my dream three thousand times and will motivate me to work on my teaching skills and prove all the naysayers that anything is possible (Lynch, 2019). The scholarship will help me get the education that I need and to help others get the same.
