Hello, class, and congratulations. You've arrived at your final assignment in this course. This assignment brings together all the week's concepts as we revisit the Walmart case study once again. There is a special emphasis for the case study on international financial management. So be sure to utilize the concepts from Chapter 21 in our textbook.

As background to this assignment, Walmart is interested in expanding to a new region. They have hired you as a hotshot MBA graduate, and are hoping that you can give them some insights on the expansion to this region, and if it would be a good idea. As an MBA, you'll be challenged many times in your career to analyze a course of action and make appropriate recommendations.

This assignment will allow you to do further research on the country you've been using in previous classes. Walmart would like you to carefully research economic, political, and financial factors that may have a bearing on Walmart's success in that country. There is not a right or wrong answer here. It's all about how you build a business case for Walmart that will determine your grade.

Remember that this analysis and recommendation needs to be an MBA level. You are out to impress Walmart executives with a command of financial valuation concepts and application. One final note, be sure to place this assignment portfolio to further create your individualized portfolio to show potential employers.
