

STUDENT NAME _____

DISORDER/DISEASE PROCESS CHLAMYDIA

REVIEW MODULE CHAPTER _____

Alterations in Health (Diagnosis)

Painful discharge of fluids through reproductive organs

Pathophysiology Related to Client Problem

It is a sexually transmitted disease caused by chlamydia trachomatis.

Health Promotion and Disease Prevention

Use condoms at all times and avoid sharing sex toys.

ASSESSMENTRisk Factors

Pain during sex and bleeding.
Pain when urinating
Pain in lower abdomen

Expected Findings

If the test shows evidence of chlamydia trachomatis it shows the number of count in the system and if you don't have it won't display any presence of the substance.

Laboratory Tests

The urine test is performed to know whether an individual has the illness.

Diagnostic Procedures

The nurse will go through each step with the client and inform him of any step and its importance.

SAFETY CONSIDERATIONS

Cleanliness and transfer during testing process.

PATIENT-CENTERED CARENursing Care

The nurse should follow the rules and regulations strictly to ensure safety and results to the client.

Medications

The illnesses is easily treated by antibiotics that fight off the disease.

Client Education

The client should understand that the condition can be easily treated in the initial stages but it is not good to wait too long.

Therapeutic Procedures

The nurse will follow the guidelines set in place and take care of the patient as demanded by the contract or

Interprofessional Care

The nurse offers the client hope and looks into comforting and educating the individual on safe sexual interaction.

Complications

Lack of confidence to face the doctor. Embarrassment due to contracting a sexually transmitted disease. Fear of stigmatization and modern medicine