Social media is defined as websites and application platforms with interactive content sharing and social networking capabilities. Students will prepare a one-page summary for each resource with the following information: Social Media Platform, Name of Page, Social Problem, Mission Statement, Target Audience, Interactive Capability, Rules of Participation. Students are to be mindful of confidentiality and terms of service of the social media platform.

Introduction

Domestic violence occurs when one of the intimate partners brings violent behaviour to the current or even the former partner. One of the partners tries to use excessive power towards the other partner and even control the partner, which is usually done through fear. Domestic violence can be sexual, emotional, social, spiritual r even economic abuse. Due to the increase in domestic violence cases, the resources in social media like Facebook, Twitter, LinkedIn and websites are some of the platforms used in addressing the gender violence issue. This platform contains mission statements that address the gender violence issue. They can also target the required audience through the interactive capabilities, which enables the message of gender violence as a social problem to be addressed effectively and in an essential manner. The social media posts have become widely cited as the domestic abuse cases evidence and have legal weight as other forms of communication are written.

The social resources summarized in addressing the domestic violence issue include Facebook, Twitter, Linkedline and some websites.

Facebook

Facebook is a resource in the social media platform, a website that allows the users to connect with friends the colleagues from work or even people who are strangers online (Lokot, 2018). Face book platform enables users to share music, videos, articles, and pictures with one another. Facebook also gives the users an opinion to discuss their thoughts and express themselves, and their views with however people may like to do it.

In one way or another, Facebook has discouraged domestic violence against women as posting. The pages that celebrate the abuse of women have permitted to remain in Facebook the category called controversial humour. These sites reveal the relationships which are in extent abuse, and also the act of publicizing the domestic violence normalizes the dysfunctional relationships.

Facebook addresses the domestic violence problem using some page like the 'Break the silence against domestic violence is found on Facebook. This page is related to other pages like Domestic and family violence, which also address the same issue. This organization comprises the survivors, who are still the founders of this organization, who have been impacted and have experienced domestic violence. The organization states that it can understand what the victims of domestic violence are experiencing, which helps such victims. The mission statement of this Facebook page breaks the silence against domestic violence because we will not be silenced, meaning that the organization will continue to expose the cases of domestic violence that are still happening (Ostini, 2019). The target audience of the break the silence organization page group on Facebook is the community connection that comprises women, men and children who are the victims and survivors of the abuse and families affected by gender violence. The interactive capabilities of this group in addressing domestic violence issue include using blogs, survivor's services and angel family services. The rules of participation in this forum are that you have to give out the complete information about you for an individual to participate.
