

- Is there a conflict between God's sovereignty and human freedom in Islam? How is this problem being addressed by Islamic scholars and others?

How is divine sovereignty understood in Islam/Quran?

What does Islam/Quran say about human freedom?

Is man morally responsible for all his actions?

What does Islam/Quran say about freewill and predestination?

Do humans have the freedom to change their destiny if Allah has determined everything that happen in the universe?

What do Islamic scholars and non-Islamic scholars say about divine sovereignty and human freedom?

How do the Islamic sects (Sunni and Shia) understand divine sovereignty and human freedom? Do they share same ideas, or do they differ?

- Sound scholarly input (religious, theological, and philosophical) is required to write this paper well.