Hello all:

The idea of your intervention "Sleep and Peace" is a good one, and I like the title. However, you are going to need to take this to the writing center or have someone proofread it more thoroughly. Some of the sentences are fragments (for example, the sentence in the 2nd paragraph is a fragment, "Also able to give out the necessary information about resources on campus and basic information about the overall mental health." Another example needing to be corrected/clarified is in the 3rd paragraph: "These tables will also give out the information of what the students will be doing in area number two of an hands on activity." Tables do not give out information, people do, and the sentence is vague and not clear on the actual purpose of the tables or what the hands on activity is going to be. Overall, the intervention idea is a good one, but the written description of it is not coherent enough. I realize the holiday break is next week, and I don't expect you to have this fixed by tomorrow. Please go ahead and submit your full proposal with the intervention included (as it is, how you submitted it as a draft) by Sunday (the designated due date). Once we return to classes, you may re-submit the intervention portion (after it is revised/taken to the writing center) to earn credit for it. You will need to re-submit the intervention portion by Sunday, December 2, 2018 to have the opportunity to earn 15 points (if it is much improved). The reason I won't give 20/20 is because you are being given an extension to correct the writing, and that means you are submitting the final draft late. You will not need to resubmit the entire proposal, just the intervention portion. I will leave this intervention draft ungraded for now, and will not grade the intervention part of the full proposal. If you choose not to resubmit, the intervention draft grade will default to 0/20.
