

Put It Into Action

Thelma Golden says that art can be a catalyst to social commentary and social change. Art is also very personal, for the artist at the very least, and help bring important, and sometimes surprising, message in a novel and engaging form.

For this assignment, you will tap into your inner artist, and create a piece of art that represent you and your feelings towards social justice. For some of you, this assignment will feel easy and natural. For others, this will be a challenge, even frustrating.

Success Criteria

This assignment has two parts:

Part 1: Your artwork. You may choose one of the following mediums to express your meaning, or you may suggest another format in conversation with me

- video
- song
- poem
- painting or collage
- sculpture

Part 2: You will write a preamble to your artwork (200-300 words) that describes your artwork, what your inspiration was, and what kind of issue or statement you have imbued your artwork with.
