Dear Sir/Madam,

After extensive research on different universities where I could prefer taking my studies, New York University was my final choice and my best-preferred university. Since I would like to study business and pursue a career in real estate after attaining a GPA of 3.7 points out of 4, The New York University was the best in offering business and real estate programs, and an outstanding reputation and excellent reviews characterize it. I am interested in enrolling in the university for the program due to various university graduates' recommendations. Majoring in business studies and real estate is my long-term goal to be achieved in my career choice, and New York University's consideration was my best choice. Additionally, the university is a center for talent development. Since I have been an athlete and I play girls' high basketball for the past four years since the time I was in grade 8, I feel New York University is the best place to develop my talent and represent the university in different activities.

My consideration to New York University was based on the fact that the United States being a center of cultural diversity, where New York is a place of innovation under business and real estate development. Securing an opportunity at New York University will enable me to work and meet international standards in exploring different skills and experiences to develop a secure business state that will cater to the hopes of the growing population in the world that will efficiently accommodate its growth. My previous school's emphasis concerning business studies has significantly contributed to the development of an atmosphere that has encouraged me to venture into various business ideas learned in the classroom.

I am much anticipating, to take a chance and make a step-in development of my future in securing a chance in the university. Entering the university will help me cultivate an identity in The New York University's academically diverse campus. Venturing various business infrastructures contained in the university, I was deeply convinced by different business speculations and real estate projects included in the university, and access to these factors will utterly equip me with the best skills that will contribute to the quality needed expecting of me to work as a commercial or residential surveyor which are the significant career opportunities that one will explore about after studies.

Becoming a New York University student will make me proud, extending my interest in exploring different business and real estate strategies through different ethnicities. I cannot think of another university that can efficiently nature my development in business studies and real estate to become a qualified business person other than New York University. As an aspiring residential surveyor, I look forward to venturing to different estates in New York City and provide full competence in the estate to return what I have learned to the society.

Sincerely,
