Part 1

Norma Rae has critical significance to the coworkers in the mills. Although she is determined to attain what she wants in life, she cannot sit down and watch people mistreated. My take on Norma Rae exists to help other people achieve what is best in life. At the beginning of the film, Norma Rae is seen as a family person and thus, she takes care of her mother when she loses hearing. Although the management does not care about the situations in the working environment, the workers have decided to end the regime of being humiliated through Norman Rae and Reuben. Norman has worked in the mills and has the energy to work on what she wants.

Employees at the mills were passing through immense suffering at their workplaces, resulting in some people having temporary hearing loss and even death, such as Norman Rae's father. Therefore, Norman Rae stood for corporate abuse of workers and thus championed the proper working environment such as better pay, more breaks and improved physical conditions (FilmStruck, 2017). This required them to form a union that will bring all workers together and moves as one team. The union was inspired by her father's sudden death, who had complained of feeling unwell but was denied a break, insisting that he continue working for the next fifteen minutes. However, he died of a heart attack while in the mills. Also, another reason that inspired unionization is the unceasing effort of unlawfully depress and threaten employees.

I am a literate person and this makes me stand on what I believe. Although it may be difficult and challenging at times, I gather my data well and present the facts and protect those oppressed. I also understand the repercussions of not following the law and this makes me professionally present my concerns.

Part 2

Living in a different country is challenging because of the many different things that one may not recognize. Therefore, I will benefit from doing several preparations. The first is communication. One way of preparation is practicing the foreign language used to communicate better with the residents. Also, I can decide to hire someone who can translate the information in the language that I understand. This will be beneficial because I will have diversified my language. Another preparation is climate. Climate is an essential thing to consider before moving to a foreign country, and this will include partisan firmness, atmosphere, cost and culture.

Moreover, I can benefit from technology in the area. Technology is currently used everywhere and therefore, through the increased innovation, I would utilize technological devices to ensure I maintain a healthy relationship with my family, friends and business partners. For example, I can grab a mobile phone or a personal computer because almost every eatery and bars have wireless fidelity and use applications such as Skype and language interpreters to make my life simple. Associating with the community might be challenging but possible through understanding their culture. Culture has a crucial role in every society; therefore, managing this will require a person to have a reliable foundation of splendid interest and humor. This will be through recognizing the region truism, getting along with the authorities and learning the traditions as well as celebrating their occasions together. Also, I can use volunteer and charity as it has proven to be the best way of enhancing will. Another way of preparation is to pay for taxes and other insurance details required. Every country will require a person to pay taxes in certain conditions; thus, I will need to adhere to the rules.
