Why Chose A Medical School

I will be glad to choose a medical school to pursue a medical career for the following reasons. First, medical school enables one to have a strong commitment to health and the community's wellbeing. Moreover, there is active engagement in volunteer activities, particularly to the vulnerable members of society. The medical schools' reputations often make them ranked globally; for instance, numerous research related to health conducted in medical schools entice me to join one for I am always curious to know the cause of specific infection.

Second, I will opt for medical school because of the reduced learning cost. Recently, students are allowed to graduate on debts on which they come to settle on later dates. Hence, the high level of indebtedness influences my decision to pursue a career in medicine. Despite the accumulating interests in loans, I would instead pursue my dream career and later come to settle the debts.

There are several reasons why I would like to practice medicine as a career. First, the medical career is one of the oldest and disciplined career globally. I am determined to bring impacts to human life in a unique way; thus medical profession is the only career that will fulfill my quest. A medical career is not just a profession but offering services with due diligence in which one sacrifices a lot to rescue peoples' lives.

Medicine as a career offers continuous learning with the emerging of new infections. Apart from the initial medical degree, which is just an initial stage, I would like to gain more knowledge and be a competent officer for the common good. Moreover, there will be continuous progress due to constant development. Consequently, I will embrace the day to day challenges experienced in the medical field. Given the above reasons, I would always choose a medical school to offer a career opportunity in the medical career.
