

Mbugani is a company which offers park ride services. It was invented to bring a solution to the people who love visiting the wildlife but didn't have means to. Below is an architecture of the website which will help me structure and plan how my website will be laid out and also how my pages will be designed and connected.

WEBSITE ARCHITECTURE

1. Landing Page

- Section 1 - After the page loading, there will be a popup message to allow the user to subscribe to our newsletter and by filling in his email address. After subscribing he will get an alert message to show the subscription successful. The subscribers will be getting noticed in case there are season offers or if there are outside country park rides.
- Section 2 - This section describes Mbugani's previous charges and current charges and also the date and place of the next Mbugani parkride.
- Section 3 - The home page will have park ride registration form which the users will fill in personal details. Then they will submit them for the booking to go through.
- Section 4 - At the bottom of the home page there will be a call out giving details about any season offers.

2. Mbugani's story

- Section 1 - This section will have a background picture of the Mbugani's team during park rides.
- Section 2 - This is a section which will give the full story of Mbugani. The story will be described from how, when, where and the period Mbugani was born.

- Section 3 – Mission and vision. Mbugani’s mission and vision statements will be highlighted.
- Section 4- This is about Mbugani’s achievements, which will be explained in form of pictures. There will be a few pictures taken during Mbugani’s process of building its name. with a description for each.
- Section 5 - The last part of the about us page is the testimonials section. The testimonials will be from a few of the Mbugani’s previous clients who were pleased by the services they got.

3. Mbugani’s gallery

- Section 1 - This is the gallery section which showcases all the pictures taken during Mbugani’s trips. The pictures will be filtered according to the place and time they were taken.
- Section 2 -There will also be a section for wildlife pictures only.

4. Animal kingdoms

- Section 1 -This segment is only about the livelihood of animals. It is a blog-like segment which Mbugani’s team will be updating. It describes how different animals live in their day to day lives. Different stories from different animals are aired and there’s a comment section where the site visitors interact.

5. Contact us page

- Section 1 – A contact form will be included where a user can send Mbugani's company team either a question or a complaint message they may have.
- Section 1 – Mbugani's physical location will be described in form of a map screenshot. The section will also include: Mbugani's number, email address and social media handles.