How has your view of theology changed over the duration of this course?

Theology has been an exciting course as it involves the study of God. Theology is a discipline that can be termed as the base of other courses, including sciences (Hubner 2019). This is a truth that was discovered since the early years of the 20th century, as well as the opinion of great scholars like Thomas Aquinas, who existed during the Middle Age. Through my journey of studies on this particular course of theology, I have learned a lot of information. I was able to gain knowledge and understanding about it that made me develop a perception about it. Hubner (2019), raised a concern and developed some criticisms about theology. Hebner (2019) said that dogma is divisive, dull, and impractical other than being practical.

But my view is that this particular course is of great importance to the lives of people, their wellbeing as well as understanding much about God. Firstly, theology provides the basis of understanding religious teachings like faith. It also explains clearly the existence of humans in the world as well as determining the ethics, norms, values, and actions. For instance, it develops one's personality positively towards others, societies as well as political and institutional structures. Generally, theological concepts are explained in the context of history and supported by a strong assertion that builds the information it presents.

How have you been able to practice the principles you learned from the course in your own life?

According to Veith (2017), theology has got the formal and material principles that are very important in our lives. To begin with, the legal policy that states its authoritative nature, it has a lot to do with our daily lives, and they are applicable once understood by an individual. This particular principle focuses on the powers of the Bible and the Quran, the authority of churches and Mosque, and the reason for the existence of many people of different churchmanship (Veith 2017). To make it practically, this principle has enabled me to develop a sense of respect for all the religious aspects and believes in the world, including the existence of different churches in our societies. The reason is that they make use of the similar Biblical concept under one God.

On the other side, the material principle of theology emphasizes its main teachings, including the features of its content that supports its teachings and practices (Veith 2017). This principle focuses on the relationship between man and God. Generally, it's the rule of the grace of God that faith takes into account without adding effort from the human. This rule encourages people to have positive attitudes towards others as well as doing great to others because we were all created by one God in His likeness. This principle has helped me to understand myself and how close I am to God. I respect and love other people.

How will you pass on the information you have learned in this course to those within your circle of influence?

I will make them aware of the concept of theology as a course. According to Papanikolaou (2017), this is a self-critical awareness, and I will supplement it by setting up the concept in its philosophical, sociological, and historical context so that those with different personalities will be able to understand the information quickly. I will also conduct debate contest especially concerning the general teaching of theology and how it helps the wellbeing of people in our society. This is to bring a broad understanding of the concept to the people around and to create a schematic sense of the discussion based on the significance of theology as the light of modern religion.

Another way in which I will pass information to the individuals around, I will encourage them to think more openly, especially by posting questions to them about the life experience of humans, which cannot be avoided at any point, for example, why do people believe in God?. Papanikolaou (2017), added that the intention is to create an open way for them to understand theology as a type of self-critical course with vital reflections on real-life experience. I will find it very important to explore all these concepts but the main objective is to pass particular information to the people about how these issues are different from the real set up of our societies.
