Trump's Administration

Trump's reign at the helm will prevalently remembered for frequent layoff of workers especially in the White House. For instance, at the end of Trump's first administrative year, approximately 34% of the workers had been affected by the changes either through laying off or quitting. By March 2018, 43 workers in White House had been affected by the changes. In fact, the administration was hugely affected by turnovers in its initial two years more than any other president. The reshuffles that Trump made in his first three years were as four times as those made by his predecessor in his first six years (Noland, 2018). Trump's administration has been marked by change in the key policies as shown throughout the framework.

There are key decisions that were made during the Trump era that defined the kind of leader he was. For instance, after his swearing in in 2017, his government set strict travel measures against citizens of Somalia, Sudan, Syria, Yemen and Iran. The policy revealed two aspects regarding his rule: one, using the executive more than the legislative agreement and the use of insiders than the legal personnel. The implementation of the policy quickly attracted diverse views. Through the implementation of the policy his attachment with the Republican Party became stronger while fueled mistrust from the Democratic party (Bolton, 2017). Therefore, the implementation of the policy clearly revealed an administration characterized by ethical politics.

Secondly, Trump's foreign policy impacted the function and the position of the United States in the world. The patronage of Trump has undoubtedly attracted criticism across the world. America no longer lives in the dreams of Ronald Reagan who had branded it "a beacon of Hope." Contrary to this, the tough immigration measures set by Trump, and support for offensive regimes across the world has attracted negative perceptions on America. The aspect is revealed through the opinions on media and surveys on United States. However, under the new governance United States has a chance to improve its perception.

Trump has consistently exhibited a similar leadership technique similar to the one used by hardliner Vladimir Putin. Trump has acted in equal manner to his admirer, Putin, an aspect that has drawn great attention. It is extremely difficult to comprehend Putin's tactics. For instance, while Trump's administration was establishing a bipartisan local support for his international policy, it is difficult to think of any measure that is admirable. The decision attracted varied opinion especially the Republicans on Capitol Hill (Hejny, 2018). Therefore, Putin has had an influential role in Trump's administration possibly because a wide range of Trump's administration is supported by dark Russian money.

Trump's America first policies have affected the performance of America in the international frame. The policy has led to existing tensions between China and America. The tension has been due to the fact that Trump advocates for racism and xenophobia, aspects which are admonished at international levels. The aspect that China are interactive regardless of the color basis, have made them to prosper in the international trade. In addition, Trump lacked substantial understanding with China mostly in fields of Trade, and human rights. Therefore, Trump's policies have largely impacted United States in several ways especially his action of supporting the white supremacists has caused not only ethical factions but also political divisions. Trump's administration will indeed be memorable or erased depending on the benefit or disadvantage accrued during the reign.
